

A MESSAGE FROM OUR LEADERSHIP TEAM

Dear Parents and Students,

As we approach the Tet holiday and the close of an important phase in our school year, we would like to share a few reflections and reminders with our community. At this time of the year, one of the most important RADI RAHI values we would like to emphasise is Discipline. Discipline is not only about following rules; it is about learning to manage yourself – your time, your actions, and your responsibilities – even when no one is watching. It is the foundation that allows you to turn good intentions into real results.

This value is not developed in a single moment, but built through everyday choices. Coming to class on time, bringing the correct materials, completing homework before the deadline, keeping your workspace tidy, and staying focused during lessons are all practical ways students can practise discipline. These habits may seem ordinary, but over time, they shape who you become as learners and as young adults.

Discipline also extends beyond the classroom. It appears in how you use your phone and social media, how you balance study and rest, and how you keep promises to yourself and others. When you choose to stay committed to your goals, to revise even when you feel tired, or to act responsibly online, you are living the value of Discipline in real life.

To our Year 12 students, we extend our warmest congratulations on completing the SACE Trial Examinations. This was more than just a test; it was an opportunity – to experience real exam conditions, to identify your strengths, and to learn from your mistakes. As you move forward, we encourage you to use this period wisely; talk with your teachers, seek feedback, and begin refining your individual study plans as you prepare for the final stage ahead.

We also warmly congratulate our Year 12 students who have already received university offers. These offers are important milestones and well-deserved recognition of your hard work and perseverance. Let them be a source of motivation, not complacency. As you move toward the SACE external examinations in April, we encourage you to stay focused and disciplined so that we can finish this journey with confidence, integrity, and pride.

Thank you for your continued support and attention. Let us continue to live our RADI RAHI values – every day, in every action.

Warm regards,

LOOKING BACK: JANUARY 2026

January concludes with positive momentum, highlighting our students' consistent efforts as they prepare to welcome the Lunar New Year of the Horse 2026. More than a transition into a new year, this period provides a meaningful opportunity to acknowledge their dedication, academic progress, and the achievements that continue to shape their learning journey and future pathways.

Completion of the SACE Trial Examination – Key Academic Milestone for Year 12 Students

Let's congratulate our Year 12 students on completing the SACE Trial Exam. This provides them with an opportunity to familiarize themselves with the exam structure, assessment processes, and academic requirements of the SACE program, while also reviewing their knowledge and assessing their readiness for the upcoming official examinations.

By undertaking the mock exam under professional procedures, students can clearly identify areas for improvement, helping them optimize their revision plans during this crucial final stage.

WinX Team Wins Final Round Spot

We are thrilled to announce that Team WinX has secured 3rd place at the Final Round of the Vietnam Commerce Case Competition (VCCC) 2025, hosted by the University of Melbourne.

This achievement reflects the Scotchies' strong strategic thinking, analytical skills, and teamwork, while also demonstrating their confidence when engaging in international academic competitions. The result stands as a well-earned milestone, recognising the team's thorough preparation and willingness to challenge themselves in a highly competitive academic environment.

Demo Class with the University of Melbourne

At the West Saigon campus, students have valuable exposure to the academic environment of a top 1% university worldwide. Through applied and interdisciplinary learning activities, students explored how knowledge is integrated and applied to address real-world challenges across fields such as science, health, arts, and innovation.

Early engagement with a university-style learning model encourages students to broaden their academic perspectives, explore pathways aligned with their interests and strengths, and gain clearer insights into future study pathways at leading universities.

Early Offer: Academic Year 2025-2026

Nam Uc Scotch AGS proudly congratulates students from the Class of 2025-2026 on receiving Early Offers from a range of prestigious universities, particularly in Australia, the US and Canada.

These outcomes reflect the effectiveness of the school's structured and long-term university guidance pathway. Through experiential learning opportunities and personalised academic counselling, each student has been supported in developing a well-rounded and distinctive application that accurately represents their abilities, aspirations, and future goals.

Building on these achievements, the Uni Prep Programme will continue to support students and parents throughout the university application process, including pathway planning, application preparation, and informed decision-making. For further guidance and support, please contact:
